Marwan went on to say that President Sadat's agenda would be: (1) economic assistance; (2) military equipment sales (not aid); and (3) politics, in that priority. Marwan stated that from the Egyptian perspective U.S. willingness to make cash sales of arms will be an important indicator of our seriousness in seeking close relations with Egypt over the long term. In addition, Marwan stated that Sadat will try to extract a precise description of U.S. policy toward Israel, its limits, if any, and in particular the geographic boundaries of Israel that the U.S. will protect.
